DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 1-5 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 10/31/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hase et al. (JP 2001-310344).

4. Hase discloses a flexible laminate for use in electronic apparatus, wherein the laminate comprises an adhesive material adjacent to a metallic foil, wherein the adhesive material is a thermoplastic polyimide and the metallic foil is copper foil. The laminate is formed via thermal lamination (pressurized hot forming), wherein a protective material is present between the pressurization side and the copper foil [0005]. The protective material is a non-thermoplastic polyimide and has a thickness of preferably greater than 75 micrometers [0006, 0018].

5. Since the prior art teaches the identical chemical compounds comprising the adhesive layer, metallic foil layer, and the protective material layer, the properties (heat resistance, coefficient of linear expansion and dimensional change) applicant discloses and/or claims are necessarily present. In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). The burden shifts to the applicant to show an unobvious difference. Note, that because the reference does not expressly address the properties of the claimed invention, does not mean that the properties are not inherently disclosed. Teaching the same compound(s) inherently discloses the corresponding properties. The references cannot possibly address all of the properties, but implicitly all of the properties are present.

6. Claims 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sugitani et al. (JP 10-235784).

7. Sugitani discloses laminate for use as a printed circuit, the laminate comprises a polyimide film layer and metal foil layer, wherein the dimensional change of the laminate after etching is in the range of $\pm 0.05\%$ (abstract and [0007]). The claim merely requires a laminate comprising an adhesive layer and a metallic foil layer. The process of Sugitani results in the formation of the claimed product comprising the claimed dimensional change. Thus, the claimed product appears to be the same or similar to that of the prior art, although produced by a different process.

8. Claims 6-7 are recognized as product-by-process claims, wherein even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process." In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

9. The examiner has provided a rationale tending to show that the claimed product appears to be the same or similar to that of the prior art, although produced by a different process, the burden shifts to applicant to come forward with evidence establishing an unobvious difference between the claimed product and the prior art product. In re Marosi, 710 F.2d 798, 802, 218 USPQ 289, 292 (Fed. Cir. 1983). See MPEP § 2133.
